

Amir Ayoub

CS – 314 - 07

He explains that it is good to write certain programs in a less abstract language for smaller problems or shorter programs and you can use any language that has the best libraries. But for big application software you want to use the most powerful language you can get and don't write it in a machine language which will be a mistake.